MRS. JOSEPH R. PAINE FATALLY BURNED BY GASOLINE

Mrs. Sarah Paine, wife of Joseph R. Paine, 120 Twenty-sixth street, was fatally burned by an explosion of gasoline at her home at about 4:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon, death relieving her of her severe suffering at a little after 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The news of the accident came as a terrible shock to her numerous relatives and friends.

In the kitchen with her at the time of the explosion was her daughter Florence, thirteen years old, who had been assisting in the cleaning of a cloak. In the center of a wash-tub in which there was some water, was placed a basin of gasoline for the cleaning. The cloak was ready to hang outdoors when the mother, in the act of going to the door, brushed past the hot stove. In an instant the windows of the kitchen and the glass in a transom over the dining room door were blown out as the interior of the house burst into a sea of flames. Florence, seeing her mother on fire, rushed to open the door leading to the back yard. There was only an instant delay but when they emerged from the room, the clothing of both was burning. Mrs. Paine, for the moment, was concerned over the child. A neighbor saw the fire and heard the screams and ran to assist Mrs. Paine who had thrown herself on the ground in an effort to smother the flames. Before anything could be done, her clothes were destroyed and even her shoes and stockings were burning.

Florence ran to a water tap in the yard and with wet hands brushed the fire from her dress.

In the meantime an unknown colored man ran into the kitchen and risking his own life carried out the burning cloak and then re-entered and extinguished the flames that were creeping up the walls.

Mrs. Paine was carried into the home on a mattress and was immediately attended by four doctors, all of whom pronounced her burns too extensive and deep to be other than fatal.

Florence was found to have her face and both arms burned and her hair singed, but the doctors were encouraged to hope for no serious results as only one of the burns was very deep.

Mrs. Paine was a woman of high character, possessed of most lovable traits. As a wife and mother she was all devotion and as a friend sincere and true. In the second ward where she had lived all her married life she was loved by every one.

Mrs. Paine was born in London, England, September 8, 1859. When she was 4 years old, the family, responding to religious promptings, came to the United States, crossing the plains to Ogden in 1865. She was married to Joseph R. Paine in 1878. She is survived by her husband and eight children, Mrs. William H. Williams, Mrs. Frank Francis, Irene, Leona, Florence, Joseph, William and John Paine. Her brothers are Samuel, William and James, and her sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Edson of Ogden and Mrs. Harry Warren of Winnemucca, Nevada.

Mrs. Warren arrived from Winnemucca last evening.

The funeral will be held in the Second ward meeting house at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with Bishop Robert McQuarrie officiating.

Because of the burns about the face the casket will not be opened.

Members of the Second Ward Relief society and Veteran Firemen will attend the funeral in a body.
